MEMORIAL FUNDS AND MEDALS

Morton Allport Memorial Fund (1879)

The sum of £200 was raised by special subscription as a memorial to Morton Allport, a generous donor of collections to the Museum and a contributor of numerous papers, who also took an active interest in the introduction of salmon and other trout. The income accruing from the Memorial Fund is applied to the purchase of scientific books.

R. M. Johnston Memorial Fund (1920)

The sum of £230 was subscribed as a memorial to R. M. Johnston, Government Statistician, a member of the Society from 1883 till his death in 1918, and a Member of the Council and Vice-President for many years. During that time he contributed 103 papers, the subjects embracing statistics, geology, botany, zoology, and palaeontology. He will be remembered not only by students of social and economic science, but also by those interested in Tasmanian geology.

The Memorial Fund provides for (1) Lecture, (2) Medal to be presented to the lecturer, and (3) Purchase of books.

Medals presented—
1934. Professor W. J. Dakin, D.Sc., Professor of Zoology, University of Sydney.

Clive Lord Memorial Fund (1934)

The Royal Society of Tasmania first met on 14 October 1843 as the Van Diemen's Land Horticultural Society. Its aim then was to 'develop the physical character of the Island and illustrate its natural history and productions'. A Royal Warrant was issued in 1844 and in 1855 it became the Royal Society of Tasmania (the first outside the British Isles.) In its early years, the Society established the Royal Tasmanian Botanical Gardens. It also began building substantial collections of both art and natural history specimens, all housed in the Royal Society Museum. These collections be The Royal Collection of the United Kingdom. It is also remarkable that Anna Feodorovna’s sister, Princess Antoinette (1779-1824), was the aunt of the Russian Emperors Alexander I and Nicholas I (1796-1855), because she married Duke Alexander of Württemberg (1771–1833), brother of Maria Feodorovna (Sophie Dorothea of Württemberg) (1759-1828), who became wife of Paul I of Russia. 200 the royal society of tasmania, 1843-1943. The name of the Society has been changed on several occasions. At the inaugural meeting it was decided to call the society 'The Botanical and Horticultural Society of Van Diemen's Land'. The constitution was approved, the Gardens in the Domain were placed at the disposal of members, and an annual grant of Â£400 was confirmed. By an Act of the Legislative Council in 1854, the property of the Royal Society was vested in Trustees, and in 1855 the name was altered to 'The Royal Society of Tasmania for Horticulture, Botany, and the Advancement of Science'. When the Act of 1854 was repealed in 1911, the Royal Society Act (2 Geo.
